Hero Of "Lost Battalion" Suicides At Sea Brooding Over War Memories Given As Cause

NEW YORK—By The Associated Press.—Secret brooding over memories of his experiences in the war, from which he emerged one of America's greatest individual heroes, was ascribed Tuesday by friends and relatives of Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whittlesey as the cause of his taking his life Sunday while on the way to Havana.

Col. Whittlesey

Leaving several letters, presumably explaining his act, the commander of the "Lost Battalion," disappeared from the steamship Tolosa, 24 hours out from New York. His intimate friends had no idea he was making an ocean voyage.

Reported Lost at Sea

Members of his family and business associates were incredulous at first when a wireless dispatch reported him missing. But as evidence accumulated they reluctantly came to the conclusion that the missing man was Colonel Whittlesey, and then they recalled incidents which, pieced together in the light of his tragic death, might have been recognized as indications that his spirit was shaken by recurrent memories of his brothers-in-arms who had died before his eyes in France.

The last blow, they said, more trying that the rest, was in Washington a fortnight ago when he took part in the funeral services for America's unknown soldier. He returned from the capital more depressed than before, the haunting visions, clearer than ever, bearing him down. There he had met hundreds of former friends and had marked anew the gaps in the ranks of the men he loved.

"Mind Stopped"

"His mind stopped," was the explanation of Robert F. Little of the law firm of White & Case, with which Colonel Whittlesey had been associated for about a year.

"It had all it could bear, remarkable mind though it was. I do not think there was a man in the country who has had the trying experiences Colonel Whittlesey has had in the past two years.

"He was the hero who was always accessible to those who thought he could help them. The disabled, the jobless, the friendless, the widows of the war—all of them, were on his mind constantly. For the last two years there has scarcely been an hour when the grief and horror of the war was not brought vividly and specifically before him."

Silent on Plans

Colonel Whittlesey had told no one, apparently that he was going to Havana. When he left his office Friday afternoon it was with some cheery remark regarding the Army-Navy football game which he intended to see.

At his boarding-house he told friends he was going away "to be by myself—to rest" when he left Saturday morning with a traveling bag.

Colonel Whittlesey's uncle, C. W. Whittlesey of New York, agreed with his nephew's legal associates that he had come from Arlington with the recollections induced by the Memorial services weighing heavily on his mind.

John B. Pruyn, Colonel Whittlesey's close friend and former law partner, also shared the general view of the cause of the tragedy.

Colonel Whittlesey's name leaped into world-wide prominence over night through his retort to the German officer who called on him to surrender after he was surrounded in the Argonne.

Refused to Surrender

For four days and nights his command, the First Battalion, 308th infantry, 77th division, had lain under fire, cut off from aid without food or water. All but eighty-seven men had been killed or wounded.

Blindfolded and under the protection of a white flag, a German soldier stumbled into the American strong point.

"Surrender," he cried, "in the name of humanity," and he told how from the German trenches the agonies and cries of the American wounded could be heard, but Colonel Whittlesey's message to the enemy was not that he would lay down his arms.

"You go to hell," he said.

"A few hours later American reserves attacked all along the line, the Germans were pushed back and the little band of survivors saved.

Given Congressional Medal

On his return to the United States he was voted the congressional medal of honor, the most coveted American decoration for heroism and a few months after the armistice the German officer who called on him to surrender made a public statement extolling the courage and dogged determination of his former foe.

CRAIG SEES POSSIBILITY OF HARMONY IN IRELAND SOME TIME IN THE FUTURE

TWO GOVERNMENTS MAY COME TOGETHER OF OWN FREE WILL

But Sinn Fein Must Prove its Ability to Govern Itself Says Ulster Premier

NO FEAR OF BREAKING OF TRUCE IS LONDON BELIEF

Officials Not Alarmed over Prospect of Break in Parley

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—It was authoritatively stated Tuesday that Premier Lloyd George would endeavor to formulate new proposals for an Irish settlement, following Ulster's refusal of the British cabinet's original offer.

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Admission of the possibility that Ulster and the south of Ireland may some day unite "of their own free wills" in the government of all Ireland, is ascribed to Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, in an interview published Tuesday by the Daily Mirror.

"I do not say that Ulster will never accept an all-Ireland council, though the Sinn Fein says it will never accept any other scheme. Sir James is quoted as saying. "What we say is, let the Sinn Fein first prove its ability to govern itself along constitutional lines. Let it win Ulster's confidence by practical proof of its fairness toward the southern unionists. Then, in the course of time the two Irish governments might confesce of their own free wills.

Can't Yield Everything

"If Ulster conceded all the Sinn Fein's demand," he continued, "the whole world would throw its hats into the air in a frenzy of joy and relief. There would be world-wide thanksgiving services in the churches, and wonderful scenes of happiness. But England would then banish Ireland from its mind and turn its thoughts to her own problems and if the Sinn Fein began to oppress Ulster under the all-Ireland council, England would then answer Ulster's complaints by saying: 'You accepted the council; you must manage your own affairs now.' Indeed, England would have no right to interfere."

Sir James was quoted as outlining imaginary causes of oppression, such as the enforcement of Catholic teaching through legislation. "Remember, religion is behind this historical quarrel, although little is said in that regard," he was quoted, "and that is

CHRISTMAS GRANNY ONE OF FEATURES OF COMING SEASON

Santa Claus Telephones that He Reached Medicine Hat on Way to La Crosse

CHRISTMAS OPENING FRIDAY NIGHT WITH STREETS LIGHTED

Decorations to Mark Start of Christmas Shopping

AMONG the many novelties to be in evidence during the Christmas season will be a "Christmas Granny," who will be at the Chamber of Commerce every day from next Saturday until Christmas.

"The "Christmas Granny" will be a motherly woman of mystery whose duty it will be to help perplexed folks make selections in the gifts. For instance, if someone wants to give a pair of gloves to somebody, and they don't know somebody's size they call up the "Christmas Granny." She calls up the one for whom the gift is intended and very tactfully asks what size is required. This information is then given to the intended donor. Again, if one is puzzled to know just what to give a certain person, "Granny" is again appealed to. She does not reveal the giver's name, and everything is on the absolute quiet. Everybody is invited to confide in "Granny," for she will be La Crosse's greatest little secret-keeper.

Santa Claus intends to visit all the towns surrounding La Crosse, as is made plan in the following telegram:

Medicine Hat
Nov. 30, 1921

Merchants of La Crosse:

Am well on my way. Had slight accident last night. Hit Father Stork, who was flying without lights. Didn't hurt him but cracked a propeller. Will resume trip and will stop in all towns surrounding La Crosse. Expect me Saturday.

(Signed) SANTA CLAUS

This means that all the kiddies in all the towns in La Crosse's trade area will have a chance to see Santa when he comes through on his way to La Crosse. While he hasn't said anything, the chances are that he will stop for a moment in each town to greet his little friends. Santa Claus never slighted anyone, and he won't begin now.

Handsome Decorations

The merchants of La Crosse are preparing for the most elaborate opening ever held in this city. Main street will present a fairy-land vista when the lights are turned on at eight o'clock Friday night. Christmas trees, gay with green and red lights, will wave a cheery welcome from every white way post in both north side and south side business district. Tempting window displays of Christmas goods will extend their appeal. The stores will be open from eight to nine for inspection only. No goods will be sold, so pocketbooks can be left at home. A record crowd is expected to be in the business districts Friday night.

ROAD REPORT IS DISCUSSED BY SUPERVISORS

County Board Hears Annual Statement of State Road Committee and Highway Commissioner

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED TO ATTEND NELSON FUNERAL

Road Budget to be Discussed at Board Meeting Tuesday Afternoon

The annual report of the state road and bridge committee of the county board and of the county highway commissioner was made a special order of business at the session of the board Tuesday morning. The report was taken up section by section and discussed from all angles.

The first point brought up for discussion by Chairman Davis, who also is a member of the committee, was the subject of town maintenance of all earth roads. "The work done in the maintenance of earth roads in several of the towns has been very satisfactory," the report stated, "but in a number of other instances the town boards have not given proper attention to this very important matter."

Holland Does Good Work

Supervisor Keppel asserted that the town of Holland got better results for less money by having the town do the work than if the county took over the work. Mr. Keppel asked what had been planned in case such emergencies as a heavy storm in which several portions of an earth road would be washed out. He wanted to know how the county patrolman could fix all the damage in time so that traffic would not be delayed.

Mr. Davis said that the town of Holland was an exception to the rule that towns were not doing the maintenance work properly and also that the committee had not as yet worked out a definite scheme for taking care of all emergencies. Mr. Fletcher declared that the usual town maintenance did not make for permanency, which was the result desired in road work.

The time and money saved by the use of tractors also was brought to the attention of the supervisors. High way markings was discussed and also the marking of trails by various organizations. Mr. Davis expressed the disapproval of the committee of the plan to have the road marked by various trail associations, saying it led to confusion.

Supervisors Attend Funeral

The board adjourned at 11:15 o'clock Tuesday morning in order that as many members as cared to could attend the funeral of J. N. Nelson of Holmen, who died suddenly last week. Mr. Nelson formerly was a member of the county board. His funeral was held at noon Tuesday at Holmen. At Monday afternoon's session of the board, Supervisor Keppel introduced a resolution expressing the condolence and sympathy of the board for the death of Mr. Nelson. Chairman Davis also appointed Supervisors Keppel, Knudson and Fletcher, a committee of three to represent the board at the funeral.

Supervisor Markle reported on the amount of bounty due each town and village in the county for the past year. The board accepted the report.

Mr. Pettingill offered a resolution calling for the appropriation of $58,000 to meet deficits or overdrafts in various departments until the next tax levy is payable. Mr. Pettingill stated that there is now in the treasury $12,000. The resolution was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Ash submitted a resolution asking that the buildings and grounds committee of the board be authorized to get specifications and make tentative plans for the changes in the room space in the courthouse as requested by Judge Higbee in order to provide more jury rooms, so that the committee could report at the next adjourned meeting of the board. The resolution was adopted.

OLD STYLE INN ROBBER GIVEN 5-YEAR SENTENCE BY JUDGE FRITZ TUESDAY

HERMAN GENSAN, who pleaded guilty to holding up and robbing the Old Style Inn, on Front street, last June, was sentenced to five years in the state's prison Tuesday morning by Judge Fritz of Milwaukee, sitting in circuit court in place of Judge Higbee.

Gensan said that his real name was Roy Hart and that he also was known as Henry Cindy Baker. He was sentenced under the name of Roy Hart.

Gensan obtained about $140 in cash and several checks as a result of the stick-up. He was arrested a short time afterwards at De Soto where he was seen riding on a Burlington train. The marshal thought he answered the description of the robbery suspect wanted in La Crosse, arrested him, and held him for the La Crosse police.

Maintains Calm Air

Gensan maintained the same calm air in the court room that he maintained during his confinement in the county jail. He did not appear any more flustered standing before the court with his lawyer, F. E. Wilhrow, than he did when first arrested or when Sheriff Miller discovered his attempt to break out of the county jail by tunneling through the floor of the cell room.

When asked about his past career and his crimes by Judge Fritz, Gensan said that he and another fellow had a concession at a fair at Billings in 1916 and that when they "went broke" at the fair, they planned to rob the office of the Case implement company. Gensan was arrested and sentenced to the state penitentiary at Deer Lodge for from five to ten years. After serving a little more than a year, he was put to work with a gang of convicts at road building and that in November, 1917, a break for liberty was made by the gang. Gensan among them. Gensan made good his escape and from until last June wandered about the country.

Craved Liquor, He Said

He came to La Crosse from St. Paul, he said, having between $80 and $90 on his person. He spent this for liquor, he told the court, and for several days before he robbed the Old Style Inn had been drunk. He was

U. S. To Press Harding Plan Of World Pact

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—President Harding's suggestion for a continuing conference of nations is expected by administration officials to become the subject of formal discussion before the present conference ends.

It was indicated in official quarters Tuesday that, although the president had no intention of complicating the far-eastern and armaments negotiations by bringing the subject before the conference at present, he fully expected that after these questions are out of the way there will be a serious effort for an agreement for future similar meetings.

It was also declared there was no intention that any "association of nations" resulting from these conferences should become in any way a rival of the league of nations.

Just what the reasons of Coach Richards are, is not known definitely, although, they are believed on good information to have come to a climax following a controversy over the ticket sale for the Chicago-Wisconsin game.

CHINA GETTING NEAR SHOW-DOWN WITH JAPS

Questions of Shantung and Manchuria Soon to be up Before Conference

WASHINGTON—(By The Associated Press)—The nine powers' conference on Pacific and far eastern questions Tuesday adopted resolutions providing for relinquishment of extra-territorial rights in China.

The resolution provided for withdrawal of foreign courts in China should an international commission, which is to make a study of Chinese laws and court practice, find that the Chinese judicial system is adequate.

After adopting a resolution dealing with extra territorial rights, the delegation in executive session resumed discussion of Chinese requests for withdrawals of foreign troops.

The delegates of the various powers were understood to have agreed informally in principle to the withdrawal, but further discussion went over until another meeting.

Japs to Explain Occupation

The Japanese delegates were understood to have told the committee that they would submit reasons for the presence of Japanese troops in China, including why they were sent there in the first place, and why they have remained. The Japanese, however, were said to have acknowledged that the presence of foreign troops, in principle, was in violation of China's rights.

The Chinese spokesman, it was stated, reviewed at length the present situation and detailed arguments in support of the withdrawal request.

SIMMS SAYS:

China Will Fight Hard for Real Shown-down with the Japanese.

By WM. PHILIP SIMMS

WASHINGTON. — The next few days will definitely determine the success or failure of the arms conference, say members of the Chinese delegation.

In committee the Japanese are making a stubborn fight to prevent the conferees going too far into the details of Far Eastern intrigue. They do not want secret loans, concealed military agreements, the "21 demands," Manchuria or Shantung too deeply probed.

The Chinese, on the other hand are just as determined in their efforts to force a show-down and throw the war-breeding conspiracies into the open.

"If we are going to stop at the expression of generalities," an influential member of the Chinese delegation told me, "the conference will be a failure and will ultimately go down in history as one of the greatest tragedies of all time.

Solve Basic Wrongs

"The Far Eastern question cannot be definitely settled unless we rectify fundamental wrongs. And the question must be settled if we are to have lasting peace in the Pacific."

The Chinese do not intend to stop with the mere presentation of "ten points." Up to now they have played a waiting game. Henceforward they will fight for what they feel they must have.

They will bring up the "21 demands," Shantung, and other specific grievances, and ask for judgment at the hands of the conference.

Furthermore, they will press for more than expressions of sympathy, promises of aid and pledges to respect China's sovereignty. They have had all these things before—and they mean nothing.

They will seek real guarantees.

When Tokyo last broached the subject of Shantung, China informed the Japanese that she reserved the rights to "seek a solution of the question whenever a suitable occasion presented itself."

Settle Shantung Now

She not only believes the "suitable occasion" has arrived, but is convinced that unless she profits by it, it may never come again.

The question of the "21 demands," Chinese hold, involves both their sovereignty and their national honor.

Shantung involves the status of foreign concessions in China, their present, their future and the right of transfer of such rights: in short, whether China belongs to China or is to be farmed out, bartered piecemeal, or bodily lifted by any victorious power at war with another power.

The battle is on between China and Japan.

If China loses, her delegates here are not alone in saying the conference is a failure, regardless of any decisions that may be reached concerning the fleets of the world.

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—The scheduled meeting Tuesday of the Big Five naval experts, the first general conference of the naval men scheduled for nearly a week, was postponed until Wednesday at the request of one of the delegations. No oficial statement as to the reason for the postponement or the delegation making the request was given.

Japs Demand 70 Per Cent

The question of a sixty or seventy percent naval ratio for Japan, upon which there has been no indication of an agreement in the committee, had become the outstanding issue of the conference through a definite announcement by Vice Admiral Kato, chief Japanese naval expert, that Japan wants the seventy percent status. In the first authoritative announcement that Japan sought to replace the "5-5-3" ratio basis of the American naval limitation proposal, giving her a sixty percent status with a 70 percent ratio for her fleet, Vice Admiral Kato declared this was the minimum necessary for Japan's security.

The American naval experts still give every indication of firm adher-

SCENIC HIGHWAY SCOUT CAR HERE ENROUTE SOUTH

La Crosse May be Designated as Night Control Spot on Mississippi River Route

Truman Pierson of Minneapolis, general manager Mississippi River Scenic Highway system, and Dr. Herman Bryan of Port Arthur, Canada, Canadian vice president of the M. R. S. H., and also president of the Port Williams-Port Arthur Kiwanis club, who are making a tour of this highway from Port Arthur, Ontario, to Port Arthur, Texas, arrived in La Crosse Sunday. The officials are visiting Rotary Clubs, Kiwanis Clubs and Chambers of Commerce and if arrangements can be made, will in the next few weeks pay another visit to La Crosse at which time they will relate the progress of this great route.

It became known this morning that earlier plans to have La Crosse included in this System may yet be realized, although they were practically abandoned more than a year ago. If La Crosse is favorable to the proposition, the city may be designated as a divisional headquarter or night control, which means that automobile tourists will make it a stop over point.

Dr. Bryan said this morning that his cities of Port Williams and Port Arthur extended a cordial invitation to the people of La Crosse to drive to the beautiful cities at the head of Lake Superior and partake of their hospitality. Dr. Bryan pointed out that the cities at the head of the lakes constituted the largest grain shipping port in the world. He also related how the country abounds in game, such as moose, caribou, deer, partridge, bear and so forth, and told of the wonderful fishing at Lake Nipigon. He also declared that this section is entirely free from hay fever, and that the cities have two of the finest Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in the Dominion of Canada.

General Manager Pierson is well known in La Crosse, where he has visited many times while his Scout Car No. 1 has been traveling this noted highway. Mr. Pierson visioned the Port Arthur route, laid it out and organized it and has driven nearly 50,000 miles over the line between Texas and Canada the past two years. He pointed out today that during the season just closed, more than $25,000,000 was expended in the state of Minnesota by tourists. He declared that it was the aim of his organization to take as much of this traffic as possible over the Scenic Highway for the benefit of the cities and towns along the line. He said that if La Crosse developed this asset of automobile traffic, it would find it to be a benefit to be calculated in thousands of dollars.

"The Mississippi River Scenic Highway System involves $150,000,000 of improved roads, serving approximately 50,000,000 people and doing a million dollars worth of business a season," he said. "Forward looking cities, realizing that they must contribute services in return for service are supporting this project on fair and reasonable lines. Some day if La Crosse wishes it, we shall be glad to explain our plan and organization. We maintain promotion, publicity, service and legislative departments, all with high grade machinery. We pay flat salaries to our executive heads and we compensate our field men, all in accordance with value received. The general manager, general secretary and treasurer are required to give bonds of $25,000 each, and in every way to proceed along business-like lines. We do not undertake to deliver the goods to any community without something to deliver with; and on the other hand, no community is obliged to serve this organization without returns."

BLOOD OF DOPE FIEND USED IN TRANSFUSION

Doctors Investigate to Determine Whether Taste for Drugs is Transmitted

NEW YORK.—Whether the transfusion of blood from the veins of a drug addict carries with it to the patient a taste for drugs is a question that is causing several New York physicians concern.

Members of the narcotic squad Sunday arrested James Milo, who sells his blood for transfusion, on charges of being a drug addict. Police say he has admitted that he has been taking drugs for three months and that he has been used in five blood transfusions during that time.

Dr. Carleton Simon, head of the narcotic division of the postoffice department, has begun an inquiry to ascertain whether any evil results attended the blood transfusions in which Milo engaged since acquiring a taste for drugs.

Milo ha participated in twenty-five transfusion cases with his name and address on almost every hospital list in the city. He has received from $25 to $50 for each transfusion.

There is a mistake in the St. Louis wire saying a woman, whole stole 300 petticoats, was caught with the goods on her.

CITIES URGED TO CREATE COMMITTEES ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Machinery for Meeting Unemployment Situation Put in Motion by R. G. Knutson

The machinery for meeting the unemployment situation in Wisconsin this winter, was put in motion today by R. G. Knutson, member of the industrial commission with a letter to mayors of all cities urging that they create committees to deal with the local labor situations.

Following suggestion of Governor Blaine, the commissin has prepared to co-operate with communities in registering unemployed and in placing them at work. Organization plans and provision for jobs through creation of work, is left to the cities.

"Governor Blaine urges that each city organize a committee to make a survey of the local employment situation and to do everything possible to find work in the most urgent cases," Mr. Knutson's letter says. "The industrial commission stands ready to assist such committees wherever organized.

"Where a local committee finds it advisable to register the unemployed and opportunities for work, the superintendent of the nearest free employment office will be glad to give assistance in organizing this service. We will also supply forms for the registration, and can be of service in letting you know what other cities are doing to meet the present emergency.

"Winter is always the critical time during any period of depression. While there are signs of improvement there are few communities in which relief measures are not necessary. Everybody acknowledges that it is much better to find work for the unemployed than to give them charity.

"Employment committees when organized will be well to designate some one person to act as the agent of the committee in getting the unemployed workmen in touch with opportunities for work. The name of this person should be communicated to me as soon as selected in order that close cooperation may be maintained with this commission. I also request that as soon as a committee has been organized in your city and it has had time to make a survey, it write me upon your local conditions."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you Have been eating too much meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy, and you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acid so it no longer irritates.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

ATTAIN UNTO WISE COUNSELS

A WISE man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels—Proverbs 1: 5.

After Many Days

DOCTOR LORENZ, most-famed of the world's orthopedic surgeons, is in the United States performing his scientific miracles for children without cost. Yet Dr. Lorenz is himself poor—the war that ruined his native country, Austria, made him almost penniless. The surgeon could ask, and be given, almost any fees he might ask by rich parents whose children need his care. He chooses, instead, to work for any that suffer, and to ask nothing in return. It is the scientist's way of expressing the gratitude of Austria for the relief work done by Americans in that country. America saved thousands of child lives in Vienna; Dr. Lorenz comes to us and gives his skill and knowledge to restore crippled American children. If you are tempted, sometimes, to believe that only self-interest and materialism runs this world think of Dr. Lorenz and his magnificant "thank you" to the United States. It has come to us because we "cast our bread upon the waters". Service and kindness engender their like as rapidly and largely as evil and selfishness. What a wonderful harvest the world would reap if it planted such seeds as sedulously as its misdirected selfishness sows the germs of hate and strife!

When We Die

WHAT happens to us when we die? What does it feel like, to pass out of this earthly life and enter the unknown beyond? An interesting answer comes from a group of physiologists. Their observations are that, in the dying hour, the sense of smell is first to fail. Then, in order, the dying person loses taste, sight, touch, hearing. Thus the five senses pass. Outwardly, death seems to have taken place. But how about the sixth sense—consciousness? Many medical men believe that the brain is conscious, sometimes, as much as twenty minutes after the five senses are gone. Every one has heard of people who had visions of angels, music and a flood of bright light, in the moment of passing from the material world.

Why fear death? Life is only a journey, death only a change. The ancients contemplated death without fear, and met it with indifference. They accepted it as inevitable, hence never raised altars to it as they did to things that might change—misfortune, fever, volcanic eruptions or the god of rain. They realized that there was no use in appealing to death, the Great Adventure.

An exceptional story is told by Rev. G. Maurice Elliot, English clergyman. His wife was ill. Doctors agreed that an operation was necessary, though it might not save her. Says Rev. Elliot: "In our distress, we both prayed to God that He would send an agel to guide us. Our prayer was answered. One night the angel came, and told us that my wife could be cured without an operation. We were overjoyed and made an appointment with the angel at the Brighton railway station, where he promised to lead us to a doctor that could help." Elliot's story is that he and his wife traveled to Brighton, found the angel awaiting them, and were directed to a hotel where they met an eminent physician from London, who said that no operation was necessary. Mrs. Elliot has completely recovered her health. This remarkable story emphasizes the fact that many men and women of an abiding faith, and with a definite idea of the hereafter, still live in this year 1921.

Secret Negotiation

THERE are anti-French riots in Italy, and demonstrations against French consulates, because an Italian correspondent cabled home a rumor that Briand had made pointed personal remarks to Signor Schanzer in a debate at the Washington conference. Troops have to be called out, and hard feelings are stirred up between France and Italy that will leave traces, perhaps, for a generation. And it was all about nothing. Hughes, Viviani, Schanzer himself, deny that there was anything but the most courteous and correct discussion between the Italian and the Frenchman. The Italian correspondent got the wrong impression, somehow—and the mischief was done. Thus does "secret diplomacy", even with the best will in the world, make a mess of things. Had the session of the conference been open, so that the Italian correspondent could have heard for himself exactly what went on, he would not have cabled the distorted, second-hand version that created an "international incident". Could publicity given to anything either Schanzer or Briand might possibly have said in the debate have made more of a mess than the garbled, half-true version did?

Call of the Wild

IN six years the wild animal hunters employed by the United States government have killed, by gun and trap, 156,150 wild beasts in the west. Poison baits snuffed out the lives of many more. Cattle now are safer. The official hunters' victims included 17,842 bobcats and lynxes, 668 mountain lions, 133,601 coyotes and 3,630 wolves. It would be rather disheartening to meet these beasts if they could be herded together in one snarling, roaring, howling mob. But they would soon kill each other off like humans, going to war.

A squirrel and a peaceful songbird are about the only form of wild animal life in La Crosse. Living in our intricate civilization, it is hard to believe that wild beasts still infest America in the numbers killed by the government hunters. They are making their last stand. They are all that is left of savage four-legged prowlers that once dominated our whole country, keeping primitive man terrified. Monster dinosaurs, sabre-toothed tigers, camels and hairy mammoths ruled America before the coming of man. Horses, brought to America by Spanish explorers, multiplied into huge numbers of wild mustangs. Buffaloes, which once roamed the western plains by the millions, now are within a few thousand of extinction. The passenger pigeon, which sixty years ago darkened the skies with its vast flocks, mysteriously disappeared. It is the same all over the world—animal life being exterminated by the cold, cruel intellect of man. Even domesticated animals eventually will pass out. Auto and airplane will end the horse. Laboratories, producing milk and synthetic meat, may doom cattle. Then man will be supreme, except for his battle with germs.

Civilization began when men banded together against their common enemy wild beasts. War devices were first invented for the conquest of animal life. Then men turned them against each other. With wild beasts exterminated, a future and more perfected civilization should have no use for rifles, pistols, daggers and traps. Perhaps those devices some day will exist only in museums, where future intellectuals will study the barbarians of 1921. The first real step in that direction is now being taken in Washington.

Milwaukee road employes on the Dubuque, Southern Minnesota and River divisions were given an unusual holiday, Thanksgiving Day by the officials of the road when the way freights of the three divisions were abandoned for the day. Local employees of the road declare this is a new departure for the company. Heretofore the way freights have been run on every holiday as regularly as the passenger trains.

The young people composing the Epworth League of the Caledonia Street Methodist church shone in the role of Good Samaritans the night before Thanksgiving by providing for the Thanksgiving Day dinners of more than seventy north side families. The young people bought the provisions and filled the baskets the afternoon before Thanksgiving. The actual delivery was delayed until after night fall in order that the recipients might not know who their benefactors were.

Half a hundred representative business men and prominent city officials attended a banquet given by Charles A. Olga

BY DORA MOLLAN

Olga was pretty; her dearest enemies conceded her that. Olga was beautiful; her fewer friends said so. Also, so said the world in general. Olga was fickle; and for this her mother took her to task, telling her that if she did not mend her ways she would end by marrying a good-for-nothing.

Poems might be written to Olga's eyebrows, which she wore, "as is," sonnets to her extended, upward-sweeping lashes; and her hair, "long and curly," could have served as an inspirational ad for the most expensive hair tonic. But Olga's strong point was her eyes. Young men and older men, too, fell for them like pins after the shot of an expert bowler. It was as though they were constructed of some rare stained glass, beautiful in the sunshine, but not permitting the admiring gaze to see what lies on the other side. Each suitor imagined that their beauty was the reflex of his own adoration.

First it was an ensign, and an officer of the United States navy is not to be scorned. Olga's mother said, "Why, who can tell? He may be an admiral someday!" Olga liked him; she owned up to that, but insisted that she did not want to call the wide world her home town.

Then came an engineer of the mechanical variety. He was earning a weekly hundred, and, as Mrs. Landry put it, "That much money is not to be sneezed at!" Olga liked him, too, but he was a widower and told Olga that she reminded him of his wife. Olga answered her mother's question as to why the young engineer came to call no more, with the remark that she did not relish taking the place of a piece of string tied around a man's finger. Mrs. Landry replied with a sigh, "I wish you would sometimes talk English, Olga, that I can understand!"

The next was an engineer of the electrical jedunsion, who had made a name for himself. He was 12 years Olga's senior. As Olga's mother phrased it, "It would give you such an important feeling to see your husband's name mentioned so often in the papers." To this Olga made answer, "I don't want my children's father to be an old man when they are just graduating from college, mother!"

Followed a Yale student, who must journey yet some way through the realms of knowledge, and an "atmosphere" actor from Moviedand. Olga, however, did not like the idea of being engaged for two or three years not off living on air, even of the screened variety.

Number six had recently passed his twenty-first birthday and had received, along with divers neckties and handkerchiefs, the principal of a trust fund amounting to $75,000. This, together with a fourth interest in an aged millionaire grandfather, he offered to Olga as a sort of premium or bonus along with himself. Leo Danforth was what old ladies call "a nice boy," and friends "a regular fellow," with the accent on the adjective. Olga liked him rather better than any of the others, her mother suspected. Olga was thinking it over.

Perhaps her daughter's temerity in letting such an offer hang fire rendered Mrs. Landry speechless; or just possibly she realized that since her urging had never helped matters before, it might be well to propitiate "Lady Luck" by pretending to look the other way.

Leo came often until one evening, when he stayed unusually late. Olga's mother heard their voices on the veranda long after she had retired. They seemed to be arguing about something. The next evening Leo did not come, nor the next. For a whole week Olga's mother forbade herself to put one question to her daughter. Then Leo drove by in a spang new roadster—with another girl! A girl nearly as pretty as her own offspring!

"Olga," she almost hissed, "have you lost all reason? Are you going to let that knock-kneed Harris girl get away from you the best chance you are ever likely to have? Leo Danforth would be a nice boy if he didn't have a cent! And when it's just like finding a thousand-dollar bill in a cereal package, instead of a slip that may possibly get you a cup and saucer if you live long enough to save the other four hundred and ninety-nine!" Mrs. Landry paused, distracted perhaps by admiration of her own simile.

"Mother" (Olga took advantage of the hiatus), "don't worry your head over Leo. I told him to stay away for a time and give me a chance to see him with other girls. I want perspective—just to make sure that he will wash well and not fade in the sun, as it were."

"And while you hesitate the Harris girl will nab that $75,000 and you will be left——"

"Oh, well, mother," interrupted Olga, and her tone indicated that she wished the subject to end for the time being, "of course I run the risk of losing him. I lost the chance to have a dress of that gingham I liked so well, didn't I? It took so long, you remember, to decide whether or not the sample would stand every possible test that the material was gone when I went for it. I come by that suspicious trend of mind honestly, mother. Don't blame me if I apply it to the choosing of a husband instead of a fabric." Mrs. Landry was speechless.

Olga returned from her afternoon bridge club to find her mother awaiting her on the veranda steps, newspaper in hand. Grimly she held it out to Olga, forefinger pointing to a news article on the first page. Olga read. It was the old, old story: a crooked financier and his victims, whose wealth he had promised to increase even as the loaves and fishes. There was a list of dupes. The miracle worker could not be found. Among the names was that of Leo Danforth, and there was a local addendum stating that the grandfather of the young man, "it was reported," had disinherited him immediately upon hearing the news.

Olga looked up from the paper and the stained glass effect was very pronounced in her beautiful eyes. "Leo is coming tonight for his answer, mother. I had decided to say yes."

"You are going to—just the same—now?" Mrs. Laundry put her arms around her daughter as the latter nodded, and her eyes said, "I wouldn't have a daughter of mine do otherwise—but see what you have done by not taking him sooner and preventing this."

Leo Danforth sprang eagerly up the Landry front walk that evening to where Olga stood waiting his coming. Did he see beyond the surface of those wonderful eyes for once? Perhaps he did, for he guided Olga into the shade of the honeysuckle vine—and of his arms—without a word; and Olga nestled there so comfortably and they found so many important things to say to each other that it was quite two hours before the newspaper item was even mentioned.

Then, "Would you marry me just the same if I didn't have a cent, Olga?" asked Leo.

"Why, I am doing it! I saw the newspapers! What a foolish question when I——"

"Saw what?" broke in Leo. But even as he spoke an inkling of what had happened came to him. "You mean you read something about my cousin John making foolish investments? I was so interceding with grandfather for him this afternoon. By George! His name is Leo, too, though they have always called him by his middle name. The local paper got the New York end of the story, of course, and jumped to the conclusion that 'L.' was I. And you, Olga darling——"

But love bounded Olga's world just then, on the north and south, east and west. She would be glad, later, that they had the money—now it was enough that her mother gave them her blessing still believing Leo penniless.

CATHERWOOD CHARGED WITH MURDER OF SISTER-IN-LAW

CHICAGO, Ill.—A true bill charging Thomas Catherwood with the murder of Mrs. Betty Sharples, his sister-in-law, was voted by the grand jury Monday, E. S. Day, first assistant state's attorney, announced.

Catherwood is alleged to have confessed he choked Mrs. Sharples, who was soon to have become a mother, and then stole $50 from her purse.

John D. gave a little girl two dimes and then gas went up and made 10,000 humorists happy.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

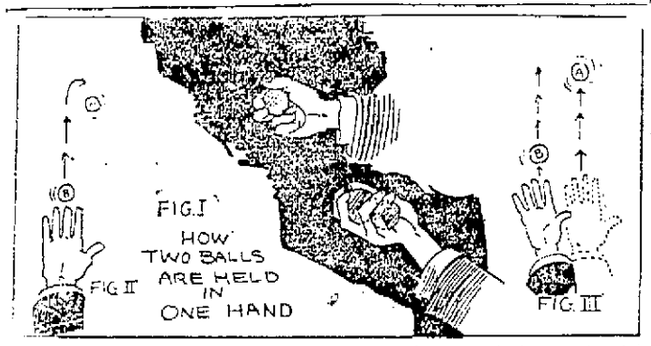
EASY JUGGLING LESSON 2



Rasso, one of the most widely known professional jugglers, has prepared a series of ten lessons in easy juggling especially for the readers of this newspaper. This is the second lesson. Another one next week.

"Double Vertical Throw"

Well do I remember the day when I first succeeded in juggling two balls in one hand without dropping them. I was right proud of my ability.

Because I did not know how to hold two balls in one hand I had much trouble at first. Soon, however, I learned that the most convenient method of holding two balls is that illustrated in figure 1, which shows two views of the hand.

How Balls Are Held

One ball is held in the palm. The little and ring fingers hold it in place. The other ball is held in the fingers, in front of the first ball, and gripped by the index and middle fingers and the thumb.

This grip on the balls allows you to toss one up without dropping the other. The ball held in the fingers always is the one thrown up first. As I mentioned in the first lesson, the ball should roll over the tips of the fingers as it leaves your hand. The fingers guide it in its course. When the first ball has been thrown, the second ball rolls into the fingers, taking the place of the first.

Matter of Speed

This "double vertical throw" is easy if you have completely mastered the single vertical throw described in our first lesson. To be able to do it is merely a matter of increasing the speed of your hands.

Take the two balls in one hand. If you are right-handed start with that hand. Toss the first ball, A, (figure 2) about two feet into the air. The ball does not take a perfectly vertical course, but is thrown so that, as it turns to come down, its downward path is about two inches to the right side of its upward path.

As A ball turns to fall, toss up B ball. B takes A's course, but because A takes a downward path to the side of its upward course, the two do not collide.

When B ball has reached the highest point, A ball is being caught. Throw A up again, making it take its original upward path. The two balls follow each other in sort of a wheel.

A Variation

There are variations of this double vertical throw. Figure 3 illustrates one. Instead of the balls following each other, each has its own up-and-down course.

A ball, the first tossed up, takes an exact vertical course. When throwing up B, shift the hand slightly to one side. Thus B takes a course of its own.

The hand must be shifted again to catch A ball. As soon as you receive it throw it up again so that your hand is free to catch B ball.

Keep the balls at an even height.

Practice with both hands. Do not work alone with your right or left. Develop both. You'll need both in the trick I shall describe next week, the juggling of three balls in a "wheel."

TODAY'S PUZZLE

"L-o-b-f-r-y-u-e-p-a-r-m-m-e-t-a-h-w-o-e-s-e-n-e-i-l-s-." Fill the blanks with the proper letters, and you will have two old sayings well known to you, combined.

Answer to yesterday's: Quebec, New York.

Large Aunt

"I have an aunt with a three hundred foot frontage," spoke up one of the students while the class was discussing real estate.

A loud whisper came from the back room. "How much does she weigh?"

ONE REEL YARNS

THE "BAD LUCK" FEATHER

"Peacock feathers bring bad luck," warned Sally. "You'd better watch out. I wouldn't have one."

Esther held up the light, graceful feather her brother had sent her. "They are such pretty things," she said. "I don't see how they ever got such a bad reputation. I'm going to stick this in that little green vase in my room." She carried it in proudly and put it on her dressing table. Then she went back to the kitchen to help Sally with the cooking. Their mother was gone and the two girls were managing the apartment alone.

They dished up the dinner and were just sitting down to eat when there came a loud crash from the direction of Esther's bedroom. Both jumped up.

Sally was the first to reach the door. "It's just that old peacock feather of yours," she said. "It was too top-heavy for the little vase and made it topple over. I told you it would bring bad luck. Your nice vase is shattered."

But Esther rushed past her, straight to the window. "Sally!" she called. "A man just jumped off the fire-escape and disappeared down the alley. See, he left the window open!"

She ran over and pulled a bureau drawer open. "Thank goodness," she gasped with relief, "my pocketbook and mother's little jewel case are safe."

"I thought we locked the window," said Sally.

"So did I," Esther agreed. "but—you see—we didn't." The air sweeping in when he opened the window made the feather blow, and that's how the vase fell, I suppose."

"Well," said Sally, "I'll never believe any more in old sayings like 'peacock feathers bring bad luck.'"

Conversation

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON

ONE of the finest of fine arts is in danger, and that is the art of conversation. As for the art of letter-writing, the telephone and the typewriter have ruined that.

Think over your friends, and count on the fingers of one hand the people who can really converse. One hand will suffice.

You have friends who can talk, and will talk, if you give them opportunity. And you may have a lesser number who can listen, though the ability to listen intelligently and appreciatively is rare. But how many people do you know who can give and take in the varied moods of conversation?

A recent writer has been telling us that one-half of our best society is always telling the other half what it does not want to know, but that the two halves take turns, and this establishes conversation on the basis of a kind of armed truce.

When you sit at the table with little men and women who really know how to converse, what a joy it gives to you. And if you find yourself able at some point to contribute something to the discussion, you are properly pleased with your own importance. It is to be hoped that you do not thenceforth proceed to monopolize the conversation.

People ought to be able to talk agreeably. They should know things that other people care to know and be able to tell them briefly and clearly and interestingly where some one else can add something.

Some good talkers are not conversationalists; they are extinguishers of conversation. They assume that when they have spoken, there is nothing more to be said. They are mistaken upon that point. Having told what they know, they should be ready to learn.

Nor should conversation be wholly on great themes. It should never be shallow and frivolous, but there should be gaiety and mirth as well as the serious talk of great matters.

If you can make of yourself a really good conversationalist, you will confer a real boon upon society, for there are few really good conversationalists, and to meet one is a joy.

CHARGES OF FRAUD AGAINST LEO LOVE DROPPED BY STATE

District Attorney Reid recommended the dismissal of the charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, preferred against Leo L. Love in county court last Saturday. The charges were made by Police Captain Dugan on complaint of Mrs. Francis Collins. Mrs. Collins told the police that Love represented himself as the owner of a farm, well stocked with cattle, and other property. On the strength of those statements, Mrs. Collins charged, he obtained $28 from her. Love was represented by F. E. Withrow, who on Saturday demanded that the complaining witness appear against Love. When Mrs. Collins did not appear Monday afternoon, District Attorney Reid moved for a dismissal of the case, which was done by County Judge Brindley.

RULINGS ON CITY DRY ENFORCEMENT ASKED OF MORGAN

Prohibition Commissioner Asks Whether City Can Enact Dry Ordinances

MADISON, Wis.—Whether municipalities in the state have the right to enact penal ordinances concerning the manufacture, sale, transportation, or possession of intoxicating liquors; whether they will have this right under the general charter law which becomes effective January 1, 1922; whether physicians, veterinary surgeons, and dentists, must have state permits to buy alcohol for sterilizing instruments, and whether certificates showing that no state permit has been issued is admissable as evidence, are the questions asked of Attorney General W. J. Morgan by Prohibition Commissioner W. Stanley Smith this week. These questions are some of the most important that have been raised in the enforcement of the Severson law, and upon Attorney General Morgan's opinion will hinge the most important steps yet taken in enforcing prohibition in Wisconsin.

Several municipalities in the state have enacted penal ordinances concerning the manufacture, sale, transportation or possession of intoxicating liquors. Under the present law, if cities have this right, it will be possible for a man to be prosecuted for an offense against the dry law by the municipality, state and federal authorities.

Mr. Smith also desires to know whether physicians, veterinary surgeons and dentists must secure a state permit in addition to their federal permit in order that they may purchase pure alcohol to the extent of six quarts a year for sterilizing instruments and for emergency use. If Mr. Morgan decides that this is necessary every physician, dentist, and veterinary surgeon in the state will have to take out a state permit at a cost of $10.

The question is also raised concerning cases where parties have been found selling non-alcoholic beverages such as near-beer, without a license. Mr. Smith desires to know whether it is sufficient evidence to show in court that the parties had no permits by producing a certificate to that effect from the state prohibition department.

Upon the interpretations given on these questions by the attorney general will depend possible drastic steps in the further tightening up of the state's prohibition enforcement. Commissioner Smith declared Monday that these questions were being constantly referred to him by local peace officers but that no general statement could be made until the attorney general had rendered his opinion. The attorney general's reply is expected some time this week.

NEW YORK.—Frederick J. Kelly, former deputy collector of revenue, pleaded guilty to embezzling $25,000 in treasury certificates received in payment for income taxes.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Office of the Postmaster General,
Washington, November 22, 1921.

To the Boys and Girls of the United States:

(Postmasters should deliver this message or have it presented to the school authorities so that it may be read in the public schools Monday, December 5, and published, without cost in the local newspapers.)

Christmas is almost here.

Your great Postoffice department has a big job ahead and needs your help.

Think what it means to be Santa Claus to our 100,000,000 people and to deliver Christmas parcels to every family in this great country within the short space of a few days without disappointment.

It can be done, and we're going to do it if we may have your help. I want to enlist the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed this week to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

Will you go home today and take this message to your parents and friends:

"Our postmaster has asked us to mail our Christmas parcels this week, for unless we do, Uncle Sam's load may be so heavy the last few days before Christmas that he won't be able to deliver all the presents by Christmas eve."

The parcels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly so that they may arrive in good condition with their Christmas appearance unspoiled. You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas."

And, there must be a number on your house and a mail receptacle, too, for, if there isn't, Santa Claus's messenger, your letter carrier, may not be able to find the house where the presents belong.

There are some other things, too, to which you can all assist in improving the mail service and in saving our great government millions of dollars a year that is now wasted because of our carelessness—yours and mine.

Every day that you drop a letter in the mail box 40,000,000 other letters are already pushing and jamming through the postal machinery. One letter a day for each family of five persons in the United States is given to Uncle Sam to deliver.

When you send a parcel to the post office for mailing any day there are about 8,000,000 other parcels ahead of yours passing through the postal hopper. This is in ordinary days; at Christmas this is multiplied many times.

One family in about every ten puts a badly addressed letter in the mail every day. This mixes up over 2,000,000 half addressed letters with the 20,000,000 fully addressed letters. That means that the fully addressed letters must wait on the slow moving poorly addressed letters just like the larger boys and girls are delayed by a bunch of "bad kids" lagging along.

You boys and girls can help the postal service and save your father some money, because he has to help pay the cost of searching addresses on letters and parcels sent out by this one careless and thoughtless family in every ten.

First find out if your family is the careless one, then bear in mind that your letters must be handled by skilled mail distributors standing in post offices and on swaying postal cars of a mile-a-minute mail trains, under poor light.

The address on every letter, card, or package must be correct, complete, and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the "From" address should be in the upper left-hand corner so that the mail will be returned to you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate names of states, because so many look alike when abbreviated.

Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, which causes post office clerks and letter carriers to stop and study, and thus lose time. Make the address plain and easily read, and always use pen and ink or typewriter and light colored envelopes, so as to save the eyes of the post office clerks. Do not use envelopes of unusual size. The little ones that are so frequently used for cards and notes at Christmas and other holiday times cause an untold amount of trouble and labor, as they will not fit our cancelling machines and therefore must be cancelled by hand. Because of their size and tendency to slip out of a package, these small envelopes are more likely to be overlooked or lost.

Mail your letters and packages early in the day, because this avoids overloading and delaying mail at the end of the day.

Your local postmaster and your teachers will tell you more about the postal service.

Do these things, and you will win the grateful appreciation of the people in your post office and especially of

Your Postmaster General.
WILL H. HAYS.

P. S.—Don't forget to mail Christmas packages this week.

Public Debate

ABOUT PROHIBITION

Editor Tribune and Leader-Press.

Dear Sir: At the last election were democratic, prohibition and the republican parties running. Each party has its platform and candidates and the votes of the citizens proved that they did not wish for any prohibition. All of the citizens who voted for the democratic or republican party was not in for a prohibition law, and their opinion was that the officers elected would not support prohibition.

The supreme court decided, some years ago, that the opinion of the voters was law; is it not so? I see in your last Tuesday's Tribune and Leader-Press that a dry army comes from Washington to clean up the state, and how many millions of dollars do they use to keep the people under guardians?

Is that what our great American people call liberty, the liberty of our great United States? Citizens, it is time to wake up.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN HAMMES.

Thanksgiving is 300 years old and still eats too much.

MERCHANTS TO TAKE CORN AT TEN CENTS ABOVE THE MARKET

"Madelia Plan" for Relief for Farmers from Low Prices Assured of Success

MADELIA, Minn.—The "Madelia plan" of taking all the corn that farmers in this section haul in from Saturday, November 26, until December 10, at ten cents above current market price, has met with such favor among the raisers of corn that the movement is assured of success, it was learned Monday.

Indications were the farmers have accepted the plan as promising them something like a fair return for their corn crop and that they will cooperate with the local merchants whole-heartedly, their spokesmen say.

The plan of taking corn at ten cents above the market to settle old accounts and in payment for goods the farmers may need was adopted at a meeting of local merchants last week.

Market price on the day delivery of corn is made here is to govern, but at no time within the twenty days shall shelled corn be less than forty cents a bushel and ear corn thirty-five cents. Each farmer is to be limited to the sale of 100 bushels unless special circumstances cause suspension of this rule.

A MODEST LIFE SAVER

Scout Harold O'Neil of Seattle saved the life of a small six-year-old swimmer who fell into the water when fishing off a dock. The child had been in the water five minutes and was beneath the surface when O'Neil got there and plunged in, finding the unconscious victim, bringing him to shore and administering resuscitation methods he had learned in his scout life-saving class. The doctor who was called declares that the scout did his job in the best possible manner and undoubtedly saved the child's life. All the scout himself had to say was, "Gee whiz! It wasn't much. But first chance I ever had to try what I'm glad it happened 'cause it was the Five learned in the Boy Scouts."

Here's the Happy Way to Rid Yourself of Constipation PERMANENTLY!

Bran is the most wonderful health food known! Nine-tenths of human ills would be eliminated if all the people would eat bran regularly, because bran corrects constipation! Constipation can be blamed as the starting point of 90% of the sickness!

Bran in deliciously palatable form—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled—will give permanent relief from constipation if eaten regularly each day. We guarantee that results will prove astounding if at least two tablespoonfuls are eaten daily. Chronic cases should use as much as is needed.

Physicians indorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation. It is not only surely effective as a permanent relief if eaten regularly, but it is the ideal way to correct constipation through food!

Kellogg's Bran is not a cathartic—it is nature's food that will not only delight your palate but safeguard your health! Start the children eating Kellogg's Bran. It builds strong bodies! Serve bran to your family as a cereal or on other cereals! Use it generously making muffins, macaroons, raisin bread or in a hundred appetizing ways! Pancakes made of Kellogg's Bran are the best you ever ate!

The consistent use of Kellogg's Bran will clear up a pimply skin and purify the blood.

Kellogg's Bran, eaten regularly, prevents a bad breath from the stomach and intestines.

P. S. By the way, it's a happy-health-habit to keep Kellogg's Bran on the dining table all the time! Sprinkle it on your food!

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent is sent to all who ask. See coupon.

Make This Test

Watch how your teeth respond

This ten-day test has shown to millions the way to whiter, safer teeth. It is a free test—you should make it. No other method known can do what Pepsodent does for teeth.

To end the film

The object is to fight the film, which dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles. Dental science has worked years to do that.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not combat it satisfactorily, so brushing leaves much of it intact.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus all these troubles have been constantly increasing, despite the tooth brush.

How we combat it

Dental science, after years of searching, has found ways to combat film. High authorities have proved them by clinical and laboratory tests.

The best dental opinion now approves these methods. Leading dentists everywhere are urging their adoption. Millions of people, as a result, now employ them daily.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And a 10-Day Tube is offered free, so all who will may quickly know how much it means to them.

Five much desired effects

One ingredient of Pepsodent is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest the starch deposits which cling and form acid.

It also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay. Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Pepsodent combines the best that modern science knows to combat the great tooth destroyers. It has brought a new era in teeth cleaning.

Watch it act

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

You will see several new effects, and the book we send will tell you what they mean. This is too important to forget. Cut out the coupon now.

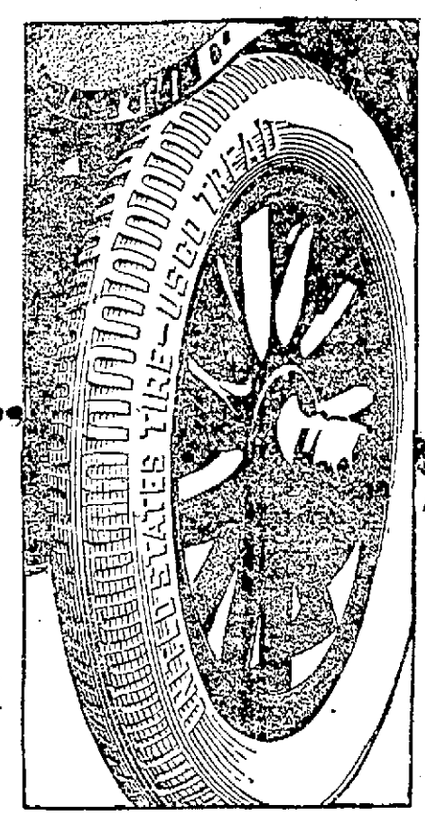
The Popular "USCO" TREAD 30 x 3½



$10.90

THE American public knows that United States Tires are never marketed on "price."

People look to the makers of U. S. Tires for quality traditions. They do not want to see a policy of superiority nibbled away for the sake of a mere price appeal.

So we say this to all those loyal followers of U. S. Tires—

Do not buy the 30 x 3½ "Usco" Tread because of its new price of $10.90.

Buy it because it is the greatest money's worth on earth today.

Buy it because of honest quality as against "bargain offers", "inside discounts" and "special trades."

An outstanding product—marked with the maker's name—the retail price quoted in plain figures.

A challenge to the tire-trader who would rather sell you an unknown tire on the basis of "so much off list"—and let you find out its real value afterward.

She can have this comfort as a gift from your Heating Engineer. ARCOLA is a gift in a very real sense. It pays for itself in the fuel it saves!
There is still time. Your Heating Engineer can have ARCOLA installed, filling your home with healthful, hot-water heat, before Christmas morning.
A quiet, scientific workman will come and put ARCOLA to work, leaving nothing but happiness behind.
Comfort is worth having! One-third of your fuel is worth saving! For her sake see your Heating Engineer today.

EQUITY CONVENTION AT EAU CLAIRE THE BITTEREST IN YEARS

Meeting Held in City Where Society Was Organized 16 Years Ago

POMMERENING MACHINE MEETS DEFEAT IN FIRST TILT OF DAY

President Having Trouble Controlling the Convention

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—In the city where sixteen years ago the Wisconsin union of American Society of Equity came into existence the same society, now a faction-torn, battle-scarred veteran farmers' organization convened, in formal session for its annual convention Tuesday morning.

The sad state of affairs "in equity" was graphically portrayed by the comparatively small attendance. In past years the number of delegates have been over the 1,500 mark. Today there are not more than 500 assembled.

With the echo of the opening prayer still in the air, the opposition was at President Pommerening's throat. The president's suggestion that the executive board's delegates credented recommendations be accepted was howled down.

Pommerening's announcement of a twenty minute adjournment was promptly countered with a motion by Judge D. O. Mahoney, Viroqua that the adjournment be only ten minutes. The "ayes" shook the walls, Pommerening took no trouble to call for "nays."

The crowd is small as compared to those of former years, but in fierceness it has any convention in memory topped. Many of the old timbers, who had, through years of experience come to practice subtlety and dickering with their grievances, are missing. Half of the delegates are new to the game. They have kicks to make and in their opinion the only way to kick is to kick and they are doing it with vigor and frankness.

The administration is worried. It was frankly admitted by Frank Tilly, Pommerening's director general, that he was "in the dark."

"This is the first equity convention I have had anything to do with on which I can't honestly get a line," Tilly confessed.

"A change, we want a change,' is the undertone, very strong and determined. Unless the administration can play the delegates off and hold them down today some startling things will materialize at the election of officers Wednesday afternoon.

Today there are only two men in the race for the presidency, Pommerening and J. B. Houston, Madison, former secretary treasurer. Houston has augmented his forces with the capture of Judge Mahoney, who is a power in the society and controls a large block of votes.

Anti-Pommerening forces combined at a caucus at noon for a concerted drive against the president's financial report. The different factions headed by Houston and Mahoney will undertake to throw the gathering into a committee of the whole. This will force Pommerening out of the chair. They will then attempt to put one of their own choosing on the platform as presiding officer. Pommerening's financial statement will then be gone after. J. N. Tittemore, former president of the equity, is slated for a few "remarks." The present administration is laying the burden of its financial difficulties at the door of the former executive and Tittemore is to "defend himself."

STORMS IN EAST CAUSE TWO DEATHS DAMAGE IS HEAVY

BOSTON, Mass.—New England cities and towns are recovering slowly from damage and confusion caused by storms of the last two days. While efforts were being made to restore lighting, communication and transportation services, a new storm of hail set in in eastern Massachusetts, the weather turned cold again and the ice burden increased. Hope that light could be provided Tuesday for nearly two score cities and towns that were in darkness Monday night, lessened.

The storm toll in life was two, both persons being killed by live wires: in money it was a million dollars or more, representing damage to equipment of public utilities companies.

MILK COMPOUND SOLD AS WHOLE CONDENSED MILK STATE CLAIMS

Offered for Sale Without Proper Designation Declare State Attorneys

MADISON, Wis. — Filled-milk is advertised and sold as condensed milk without distinction from the unadulterated products, the sale contends in arguing its claim that he combination of skimmed milk and cocoanut oil is fraudulently sold in Wisconsin.

The state expects to complete presentation of its case by tomorrow when all facs will have been brought before Judge A. G. Zimmermann, referee for the Supreme court in the suit of milk companies against the recent law prohibiting manufacture and sale of filled-milk within Wisconsin.

Hundreds of advertisements were entered as evidence that milk compounds were offered as whole condensed milk. Facts were also presented to show that grocers in the state sold the compounds for milk, without making distinction between the original products and that filled with cocoanut oil.

When the presentation of facts has been completed the judge will make his finding which will be used by the Supreme court as a basis for its decision on constitutionality of the law.

OLD STYLE INN ROBBER GIVEN 5-YEAR SENTENCE BY JUDGE FRITZ TUESDAY

sober at the time he committed the hold-up, he said, but that he was after liquor more than he was money, having a craving for a drink that he could not allay. Gensan said that he had asked the bartender, William Wojahn, for a drink but had been refused, having no money to pay for it. He remained around the Old Style Inn all day and evening, he said, and when Clarence Shisler, former proprietor of the place, entered, bought drink and flashed a big roll of bills, Gensan said he made up his mind to hold up the place and get a drink. He went out to Shisler's car, which was in front of the place, Gensan asserted, and took a revolver from a pocket in a door of the car.

Told to Help Himself

Then he went back into the saloon and ordered everybody to throw up their hands and backed them against the wall. Going behind the bar he helped himself to a bottle that was about three-quarters full of liquor, he declared. All the time, Wojahn kept saying, "Help yourself." Gensan stated, and then as an afterthought decided to take the money in the till. It was liquor that he really was after, Gensan insisted.

At this point Mr. Withrow told the court that he could "see little harm in robbing saloonkeepers who charged 50 cents a drink for liquor."

Gensan also told the court that his home was in Mississippi, that he was about 21 or 25 years old, he was not sure which as his birth certificate had been burned in a fire in his home. He refused to gave any further inkling of where his family lived or who they were.

Court Appeals for Reformation

In sentencing the bandit Judge Fritz made an unusual appeal to Hart to regard his sentence as atonement for the past and an opportunity to return to right living.

"You are still a young man," said the court. "You have had a bad record and a bad career. You have entered upon a road and course in life that leads but to the penitentiary. There is no alternative. I do not know if it will do much good to talk to you with a hope for reformation. In your instance the most important reason and justification for imprisonment is to enable society to protect itself.

"But you are a young man and you still have the promise of years adequate to enable you to redeem yourself and to enable you to again, get back among honest people, laboring as you should and supporting yourself in that way."

Promises to Try

Gensan interrupted the court to say that he would "take the best advantage under the circumstances because I believe you have been fair to the state and also to myself." He promised to try to "come back."

Judge Fritz ended:

"You have some courage. I appreciate that even in the commission of a crime it takes some courage. Now let me hope that you will find the courage—and let me say to you it ought not to take as much courage—to make the turn, to face the world with an honest record in the future, with honest deeds, and that the good there is in you will yield to the Master Hand, and that you will return a real man when you have finished your term of imprisonment."

HUMRICH TO FACE NEW CHARGE; FIRST CASE IS DISMISSED

Charge of Obtaining Money Falsely Dropped; Ranis Makes Complaint

Monday afternoon Fred W. Humrich was cleared in county court of one charge of obtaining money under false pretenses when he was at once re-arrested on another warant, alleging a similar offense, and sworn to by August R. Ranis.

Humrich, who formerly operated the Automotive Service company, on Pearl street between Front and Second streets, was arrested in Wichita, Kansas and brought back to La Crosse to answer to charges of obtaining $1,000 under false pretenses from Ernest Schulte of Colby, Wis. Schulte at the examination Saturday before Judge Brindley testified that he had given Humrich $1,000 as his share of the cost of a partnership in the business Humrich had established. Schulte claimed that Humrich had told him he had $5,000 worth of stock in the store and was doing a good business. Schulte declared that the first two weeks he was there they did practically no business at all and that the stock was not worth what it was represented.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday afternoon when District Attorney Reid moved for a dismissal of the charges preferred by Schulte and then had Humrich re-arrested on a new charge, made by Mr. Ranis. Mr. Ranis alleged that Humrich had obtained $300 from him, representing that he had goods valued at that in the express office but that he could not get them because he was short of funds. Ranis further alleges that Humrich did not have $300 worth of goods awaiting him in the express office. Humrich has retained F. E. Withrow as his counsel.

FINAL MEET OF EXPERTS IS DELAYED

gone to the view that sixty percent for Japan is the maximum naval strength that could be accepted in view of liabilities and interests in the Pacific. The American officials are satisfied as to the correctness of the original estimates of naval strength upon which Secretary Hughes' proposal was based, after a review of the facts and figures involved by the committee of experts.

Near Jap-China Dispute

In addition to a final agreement looked for Tuesday gradually to abolish the system of extra territorial rights in China under which foreign governments have set up their own courts there, the far eastern committee of the conference also was prepared to take up China's request for withdrawal of foreign troops stationed on her soil without treaty sanction. The discussion may bring up for the first time the Shantung and Manchurian controversies, in view of China's contention that Japanese troops are stationed there without authority. The real issue involved in these two problems, however, was expected to be deferred for discussion in the near future under the specific subject of railway leases.

Standing on the side-lines in a more favorable position for forming of a good judgement as to the ultimate outcome of differences developed between the American and Japanese naval experts, some delegates of other powers have concluded nothing has really occurred likely to prevent a satisfactory solution of the problem.

Harmony Foreshadows Solution

These delegates base their belief on the conviction that the spirit animating all the delegations has been so admirable as to insure mutual concessions and the solution of the issues in a reasonable way.

One of the American delegates said greater progress is being made than had been expected, and dwelt on the harmonious spirit that prevails in the conference. "It simply means that the powers have decided the time has come to co-operate," he said.

Asked whether the conference contemplated provision of means to enforce agreements entered into, he replied.

"It is contemplated that the agreements entered into will be kept without special provision therefor. The idea prevailing in the conference is that what the nations say they will so they are going to do."

No Intent to Use Force

That is the idea in the mind of President Harding also in connection with his plan for the formation of an association of nations which would keep clear of use of collective force, the fundamental principle of the league of nations. Former Senator Sutherland, chairman of the American advisory committee, pointed out that such an association would be an evolution. The league of nations, on the other hand, was a completed structure, with every brick in place, when it came from the Paris peace conference.

Need Not Consult Senate

Mr. Sutherland made no comment upon the opposition expressed by Senator Borah, Idaho, irreconcilable, to association proposal. He indicated, however, that an association of nations as now proposed may never have to come before the senate for ratification.

Labor Approves Proposal

Organized labor's general committee on armament limitation today approved the association of nations.

"The committee," its statement said, "is unqualifiedly in favor of an organic and continuing relationship between the nations, in which America will accept its full responsibility. The need of some permanent international body to supervise the execution of the agreements reached at this conference, the necessity of further conferences to deal with the many other and equally pressing questions, the gain in convenience and efficiency by such an organization are obvious."

MILK COMPANIES ATTACK TESTIMONY OF STATE EXPERTS

Statements that Filled Milk is Not Nutritious Erroneous Claim Attorneys

MADISON, Wis.—Reports that filled milk is not altogether nutritious and a wholesome food were declared Tuesday by attorneys for milk products companies, to be erroneous and not in conformity with testimony presented in the hearing before Judge A. G. Zimmerman, to determine facts in the suit against the state law prohibiting manufacture and sale of compound milk products in Wisconsin.

Testimony of Dr. Stephen Moulton Babcock, noted scientist, had little bearing on the case and did not tend to show filled milk to be an undesirable food, R. W. Jackman, attorney for the Carnation Milk Products company, said. He declared that no word of evidence had been entered to indicate that the milk compounds were any other than wholly nutritious and wholesome.

Evidence of Dr. E. B. Hart of the University of Wisconsin was largely based on experiments made with skimmed milk and not filled milk, according to Mr. Jackman. Skimmed milk has the fat constituent completely removed, while filled milk, he explained, has a substitute fat which replaces the original butter fat of milk. This distinction is said to have a distinct bearing on the nutrition value of the product.

Tuesday's testimony by members of the force of the dairy and food commissioner, is expected to end the hearing to determine facts, before the case goes to the supreme court for a decision.

the sort of thing that would be likely to happen."

Sir James contended the guarantees promised Ulster by Premier Lloyd George would not protect her against such possibilities.

London Not Alarmed

LONDON, — By The Associated Press.—While it is thought there that Premier Craig's statement before the Ulster parliament Tuesday will leave the deadlock in the Irish peace negotiations virtually unchanged, the political observers view the situation with unusual calm. They appear to adopt the view ascribed to official circles that, even if the peace movement receives a setback now, it may ultimately reach a satisfactory conclusion based on mutual concessions.

Not only is a breach of the Irish truce, which has endured five months, unexpected following a possible cessation of negotiations, but the newspapers generally imply that all the interested parties recognize the importance of maintaining it.

EQUITY DEFICIT IS CHIEF WEAPON OF PRESIDENT'S FOES

This and Drop of 10,000 in Membership Gives Basis of Fight for Change

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Special to The Tribune and Leader-Press.)

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—An admitted deficit of $20,121.09 incurred during the past year is the battle issue at the Equity convention being held in this city. Around this statement of loss is centered the fight for the presidency—a fight that has taken on a complexity of candidates that only an Equity confab is equal to.

An audit carried in the convention number of Equity News, prepared by Elwell, Kiekhofer and Iery, certified public accountants, Madison, gives the assets of the society as $23,115.57, the liabilities, $43,237.56; deficit, $20,121.09. The paid membership at the close of the fiscal year, October 31, 1921, is given as 18,545. For 1920 the membership is given at 28,-578, a drop of 10,000.

President Denies Blame

Opposition to President Edward Pommerening is making much of these facts. The enormous slump in membership is throwing a scare into the delegates. As many see it and express it: "Can the Equity, facing undoubtedly further losses in membership, brave the stress of such a large debt." President Pommerening will answer all charges of extravagance and recklessness in his annual report. The executive is prepared to prove that his is not the sin. His contention will follow this line of argument and produce these figures:

That of this $20,000 deficit, $15,-191 was incurred by the Equity News, $2,611 by the business department; $1,185 by the produce department and the remainder by the Wisconsin union. His position in brief is that the deficit was saddled on to his administration by enterprises he was forced to carry.

Answering this he is confronted with his opponents' claim that the dues of the society were raised at the 1920 convention from $2.50 to $5 to meet just the exigencies he is claiming, and particularly that of the $5 dues it was specified that certain sums be devoted to the liquidating of the Equity News debt and other liabilities. This they charge has not been done.

Claim Fight for Life

The presidential fight at this convention of the society is more than a mere scramble for office. In the words of J. N. Tittemore, three times president of the organization and considered by many a not improbable seeker of the post for a fourth term, the real problem before the Equity society is its existence.

"Whoever gets the post of president is undertaking a heroic job. The Equity society has gone through four years of spirit breaking factional wrangling. It is torn into a myriad of irreconcilable groups and cliques. It is openly declared "we'll drop out if he is elected," or "we're through if that gang gets in."

In the prosperous years farmers had money to join the society. It was no effort to pay the dues. The fight in the society was new and interesting. Today, dues come not so easily and the delegates feel that it is a hopeless tangle.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—All three bodies of victims of the Rialto theater fire of Sunday night had been identified Monday afternoon. Those burned were R. H. Perrigo, 48; Mrs. Marcella Gowan and Timothy Hanlon, 58, who died from a broken neck.

Firemen and police are certain there are no other bodies in the ruins.

The number of persons who received injuries has been greatly increased, some fifty or more receiving surgical attention for burns. The list of injured now exceeds 125, but the number in critical condition remains at five.

LIST OF DEATHS IN THEATER FIRE IS INCREASED TO SIX

Four Die in Hospitals of Burns and Injuries Sustained in Exit Jam

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Two more persons burned in the fire which destroyed the Rialto theater died Tuesday, making the actual deaths six, the coroner having eliminated the name of Timothy Hanlon, who was a victim of heart disease. Those who died Tuesday were Everett Case and Victor Cortelle.

The deaths Monday night were those of Allen Keith, a Yale sophomore whose home was in Southport, Conn., and Miss Mabel Moran.

Keith after getting out unharmed, returned and assisted a number of women out, returning again to search for others. On his last trip he was burned severely.

Yale students assisted in rescues. John Locke of Roland Park, Md., who went back into the theater found a child which a woman had lost in her struggle to get out.

George Heffelfinger, 23, of Wazata, Minn., nephew of "Pudge" Heffelfinger, one-time famous football player, stood inside and divided the crowd so that it used two doors.

LA CROSSE STOCK PLAYERS TO OPEN WITH NOTED PLAY

"Civilian Clothes" Chosen for Debut of Venture in Popular Price Drama

The long-awaited La Crosse Theater Stock company, which will open a new venture in popular priced plays at the "big house" next Sunday, on Tuesday announced "Civilian Clothes" as its first bill. The play is now in rehearsal, and a special production is being built for it by the theater's own artist.

The three acts of "Civilian Clothes" are concerned with the home coming of a soldier of the A. E. F. Sam McGinnis, son of a shoemaker, and a civil engineer by right of a self acquired education, has worked his way up to a captaincy in the army by sheer force of mind and fists. While in France he secretly marries Florence Lathan, a daughter of a wealthy southern family, who is doing war work at the front and who is captivated with the way in which he boxes her ears for disobeying orders.

When he comes back to America, at the start of the play, McGinnis finds the girl in her home surroundings at Louisville, a snob of the deepest dye, ready to throw him over because she doesn't like his family and appearance in civilian clothes, especially his yellow shoes. In fact it might be said that the play is set in motion because of those yellow shoes.

The ex-captain coolly announces that he will win her in spite of herself and since she has kept the marriage a secret he becomes a butler in her home. Things begin to happen, clean cut comedy situations follow each other in rapid succession, and it ends in a novel manner, but not until the audience witnesses many thrills and has had many laughs.

Not a detail of the production has been spared, the scenery, furniture and hangings are equal to the original road show in every respect.

EGGS BEING CORNERED

Wholesale Price Advances and Further Increases Are Expected

BY ALBERT APPLE

CHICAGO, Ill.—A gigantic corner is being formed in the egg market. This is privately admitted by some of the leading produce men and brokers who frequent the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Wholesale price of the best grade of cold storage eggs has advanced 5 cents a dozen in Chicago. Trade rumor is that the cards are stacked for another advance of 10 cents.

Cold storage houses in United States held 125,000,000 dozen eggs November 1. This was 17,000,000 dozen eggs more than were in storage the same date last year.

Stocks of eggs in storage not only are big, they also are being drawn on slowly.

Produce brokers who deny that the egg market is being cornered, blame the rise in price on cold weather.

"THE SHEIK"—RIVOLI

Bringing not only the desert but the very dwellings and people of the desert to the screen is the feat accomplished by the production staff in the filming of George Melford's latest Paramount production, "The Sheik," which will be shown at the Rivoli until Wednesday, with Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino.

The feat consisted of building a complete desert village at the Paramount studio in Hollywood. Picturesquely Arabic and technically perfect, it represents one of the most notable achievements in present day picture making.

This village is the fortified stronghold of the robber sheik, Omair, who is the villain of the story. In the picture it is attacked and captured by the Sheik, thus furnishing the background for much of the stirring battle action of the drama.

Rudolph Valentino, who plays the title role, leads the attacking force against the robber sheik—played by Walter Long—for the possession of the leading feminine character, Diana, portrayed by Agnes Ayres, who is featured with Mr. Valentino.

JUSTINE JOHNSTONE—MAJESTIC

Probably no man on earth would ever desire a home of his own, if he could find board and room with such a lovely landlady as Justine Johnstone makes in "A Heart to Let," which opened a three day run at the Majestic theater Monday.

As Agatha Kent, a proud but poverty-stricken young aristocrat who has inherited a run down estate and nothing more, Miss Johnstone made an instantaneous appeal to her audience. Not a pathetic appeal, mind you, for she was much too spirited and had much too active a sense of humor to be pathetic.

With admirable courage she decides to turn her enormous empty house into an asset instead of a liability, and we see her sitting down with grim determination to pen a "Rooms to Let" advertisement.

Many boarders were called, but only one answered. Of course God one was a man, and equally certain he was young, rich, handsome and eligible.

"CAMILLE"—RIVIERA

Furnishing artificial light and rain for an otherwise dark and dry city is just one of the miracles accomplished by Nazimova in her Metro production of "Camille," now showing at the Riviera theatre. The June Mathis version of the Dumas masterpiece called for a street scene on a stormy night. To obtain the desired effects, even on the big stages at Metro's Hollywood studio grounds, was agreed to be impossible. Director Smallwood called upon Santa Monica's fire department and Metro's entire electrical department to produce the supposed impossibilities. A usually unfrequented street in the beach city was selected for the scene, a huge group of powerful lights and a portable electric plant were concentrated in the street, and all the water power for miles about the place was harnessed for the task of producing rain. It was a realistic rainstorm that was staged along this astounded thoroughfare. Several wind-making machines and half a dozen power plants furnished the necessary motivation for the storm. Rudolph Valentino is playing opposite Nazimova in "Camille," while Zeffie Tilbury, Arthur Hoyt, Rex Cherryman, Ruth Miller, Consuelo Flowerton and Edward Connelly are included in the supporting cast.

"IT'S A GREAT LIFE"—CASINO

Cullen Landis, who plays the principal part in the Goldwyn all-star production "It's a Great Life," the Mary Roberts Rinehart story, started in pictures as a truck driver for the Balboa Film company, in 1914. He was soon promoted to assistant property man.

Then he doubled in pictures as a stunt man and later was given small parts. His first Goldwyn Picture, "The Girl from Outside," written by Rex Beach, brought his recognization and Goldwyn signed him for a period of five years. "It's a Great Life" will be shown at the Casino today.

AUBREY COMEDY AT THE COOPER THEATRES

In many rollicking comedies Jimmy Aubrey has appeared as an agent of destruction and a trouble maker. In "The Back Yard," a Jimmy Aubrey Vitagraph comedy, he is seen in the role of a peacemaker. In this he is as funny as he is successful. "The Back Yard" will be shown at the Casino, Riviera and Strand this week. The lost heiress, charmingly pretty, even in rags, started the trouble, and all the children of the alley, who played in the yard, of all colors, plunged into it enthusiastically. Then Jimmy Aubrey tried to stop the rumpus by picking up the scrapping youngsters one by one and putting them in separate places. They would not stay put, that was the trouble. The peacemaker found the greatest difficulty with a diminutive darky. He interned the inky imp in a barrel, pinned him to a clothesline and threw him over a high fence, but the little rascal found his way back into the fight.

SNAPPY BURLESQUE SHOW HERE SATURDAY AT THE LA CROSSE

Replete with Pep, Personality and Punch.

Burlesque of the brightest type with originality as the keynote of the entire production will be offered at the La Crosse Theater Saturday, when the "Placemakers" come. Pretty girls will grace the chorus line and the principals are known in the realm of burlesque as particular stars in their sphere. Frank Damsel's "Placemakers" always gives a good show and the company this year is equipped with clever people, stunning and dashing costumes and electrical effects that give it the appearance of a high class Broadway production. Frances Farr, one of the most charming girls that ever graced the stage will skip about and make merry in a carnival of joy and real merriment. The offering is given the title, "The Rum Runners" which is a clever concoction of joy with special ingredients introduced to give it a real "Burlesque" kick. The dashing Russell Sisters, known as the most talented steppers will introduce a dancing novelty and one of the big scenes will be the submarine feature which delights and thrills.

BELKNAP SUSPECT FREED

DUBUQUE, Ia.—Suliman Baker, held at the Elkader, Iowa, jail since Friday as the slayer of Father A. P. Belknap at Lead, S. D., was released Monday upon order of County Attorney Eichenbaugh after pictures and descriptions from Deadwood, S. D., failed to tally with the man held.

RICHARDS LAUDS HIGH STANDARD OF ATHLETICS AT "W"

Declares University is Due to Arrive at Championship Post Next Year

By BOB DUNN

That Wisconsin has stood high consistently among other western teams in the realm of football was the statement made by Coach John Richards at a farewell banquet given on Friday night to members of the football squad, All-Americans and others prominent athletically at Wisconsin.

"I figure a school should be good for a championship about once in four or five years," said the coach. "This was my fourth year at Wisconsin. Each year we came close, but lost out in crucial contests. Next year we are due to arrive."

Coach Richards lauded the high standards of scholarship maintained at Wisconsin for athletes. That a man has to be a student first before he can be an athlete was his statement. Much, he said, would depend on the way the men maintained their scholastic records as far as Wisconsin's prospects for next fall are concerned.

AUBREY DEVINE. IOWA GRID STAR. IN BASKET TOGS

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Jumping into basketball togs as soon as he had removed the moleskin in which he led his eleven to the middle western championship, Capt. Aubrey Devine, the Iowa football star, re-entered the basket field Tuesday. Coach James N. Ashmore installed the great quarterback in his old job as standing guard, and it looks as if Devine will be a fixture this season.

Ashmore has six more first team experts of previous seasons, and a number of other experienced men. The Hawkeye mentor expects his squad to perform unusually well this year, but makes no claim as to Big Ten honors. Among his veterans are Shimek, Frohwein, McGovney, Barton, Prentiss, Michaelson, Finamen, Lohman, Hurlburt, Veltmer and Kelloway.

BODEGA LOSES TO SAFFORD MONDAY

This evening the Bodega club plays at Wittenberg's north side room.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE STARTS IN EARNEST AT WISCONSIN THIS WEEK

BY BOB DUNN

Although light basketball workouts have been under way at Wisconsin since the first part of October, practice started in earnest during the past week with Coach W. E. Meanwell setting a heavy pace for his men at the start of the season.

Football men will not report to the squad for a week or more. Williams, basketball as well as football leader, was injured slightly in the Chicago game and will be given time to recover from the football mishap before reporting for basketball.

As was the case last season, the Badgers will be much lighter than the average conference teams but the five is expected to make up for its lack in weight by speed and cleverness.

Improved Team This Year

That Wisconsin will have a better team on the basketball floor than represented the institution last winter, when the Cardinals tied for leading conference honors, seems certain for there are several men this season who have had a year's experience with Coach Meanwell's short pass game which is not easily mastered in a short period of training.

The same situation is true to some extent in other conference schools, however, and indications are that there will be several teams this year with a stronger attack than that put up last season.

As far as pre-season dope is concerned, Purdue appears to have the edge because the Boilermakers have but a nine game schedule and lost but one veteran from last year's five.

Wisconsin will have several of last year's leaders back in the lineup. Duke Caesar, playing his third year of basketball at Wisconsin, was elected captain at the beginning of the season. Caesar has played guard, forward and center, but it is likely that he will be developed into a regular forward this year.

Cap Taylor, captain of the team last year and one of the leading scorers in the conference, will also be back for his last year of play and will undoubtedly find a job at one of the forward posts.

Rollie Williams is conceded to be one of the fastest men in the country on the basketball floor. Last year he performed as a running guard position and this year will find him at the same post. There are several men from last year's freshmen repertiar, among them Irish and Taft. Gage is back from last year's squad and will probably be used as a utility forward as he is exceptionally light for a basketball man.

Gus Tebell, just finishing up a successful football season, will probably get the other guard position as he worked with the squad last year and knows the team's style of play. There is much competition for the position, however. Just who will be used at the pivot job is uncertain. That a new man will have to be developed seems certain, and the coach is looking around for a man with the necessary height, speed, endurance and shooting ability to handle the job.

The Wisconsin five will face as hard a schedule as that encountered by any other school in the Big Ten. As one of the attractions of the preliminary schedule, negotiations are under way with a prominent eastern school to come west for a pre-conference season battle. If the game is arranged, as now seems probable, it will be played at Milwaukee, according to the Badger authorities.

The preliminary and regular conference games definitely arranged for at present follow, with La Crosse Normal providing the last of the pre-conference season competition:

Preliminary Games

December 10—Michigan Aggies at Madison.

December 16—Ripon college at Madison.

December 20—Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

December 23—Wisconsin at La Crosse.

Conference Games

January 21—Minnesota at Madison.

February 13—Iowa at Madison.

February 18—Wisconsin at Michigan.

WEST POINTERS MAY SECURE NEW COACH FOR 1922 SEASON

Chief Criticism is that Army Line Has Tackled High and Ineffectively

BALTIMORE, Md.—In Army circles it is thought probable that when the 1922 football season rolls around the coaching of the soldier eleven will be in other hands than those of Major Charles Daly, who has directed the Army gridiron destinies for the last three years, after a long tenure of office, broken by the war.

It is no secret that military adherents are much dissatisfied with the showing the Hudson river eleven has made during the last three years, when they have been humbled as many times by the sailors from Annapolis. The defeats, while not overwhelming as far as large scores are concerned, were none the less decisive.

Change Bad Line Drill

The chief criticism made in the Army play among the partisans is directed against the coaching of the Army lines which have played high in the air and tackled ineffectively. This was more than evident Saturday, and the timing of plays on the attack was poor, it is argued.

Army followers believe the time is ripe for a change and that a coach of high caliber should be gotten for the Army at any cost. West Point has about the largest student enrollment in its history, splendid material, and the students are older than their Annapolis rivals.

In the face of all this Daly has not been able to produce a dependable quarter or a good working line, and a change of mentors would give the Army at least a chance to shine under other directing systems.

SPORT BRIEFS

NEW YORK.—Stanislaus Zbyszko of Poland, world's heavyweight wrestler, defeated Strangler Lewis in straight falls.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Pal Moore was matched with Johnny Duff, bantamweight champion, for a ten round, no decision, bout in Milwaukee, December 15.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Captain Bob Roper, Chicago heavyweight, was given the referee's decision over Eli Reed, Los Angeles, in the fourth round after Reed had been knocked down four times.

LEADER KEEP PLACES IN BOWLING TOURNEY

DES MOINES, Ia.—St. Paul, Des Moines and Chicago bowlers failed to disturb the five leaders in the four events of the annual midwest tournament here Monday night.

Several 600 scores were made in the singles but these failed to land better than 30th in the standings. Scores of the leading five in the four events were unchanged.

Absence of street cars doesn't make the heart grow fonder.

MAROONS START BASKET PRACTICE WITH 3 VETERANS

CHICAGO.—With three "C" men on the squad, the University of Chicago basketball team started practice in Bartlett gymnasium Monday. Capt. Halladay, center; McGuire, guard, and Stahr, substitute forward, are the returning letter men.

Director A. A. Stagg returned from the East, and with Nelson Norgren, his first lieutenant, handled the men in the opening workout.

Capt. Robert Halladay, varsity center for two years is sure of his position, and if he improves as much over last year's form in basketball as he did in football, will be a great center. "Sheath" is tall enough for the tip-off, dribbles exceptionally well but at times too far, and is a fine shot at the basket from most any spot on the floor.

CALIFORNIA LANDS

at the rate of $5,000 a year from a business run by one man without hired help. Sounds good, doesn't it? And yet it is being done every year by our people at Rio Linda, in the suburbs of Sacramento, California. And the best part of it is there is no competition—the more that engage in business the greater the proportion of profit. You will be welcomed by your neighbors, and will be taught the business by our Poultry Adviser, A. A. Lyding. All details are explained in our booklet, "Poultry and Orchards," mailed without charge.

MARKET BROADENS

Stocks Continue to Show Decided Strength; Liberty Bonds in New High Record

NEW YORK—The 4½ per cent opening rate for call money encouraged a broadening of operations for the long account on the stock exchange Tuesday. Oils, tobaccos and leathers continued to be most favored, although rails, notably Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific preferred, Great Northern preferred, and Norfolk and Western showed marked strength. Sears-Roebuck was the only distinctly weak issue adding 1½ points to Monday's severe loss. Accumulation of Liberty bonds on a large scale was interrupted, seven of those issues making new high records for the year. The first fours were the outstanding features, showing a gain of $1 per $100 at 97.40.

Trading shifted to shippings, oils, motors and their specialties at the opening of the stock market. Rails, steels and equipments evinced little of their recent activity. United Fruit rose 1½ points, mercantile Marine preferred American International, Willys-Overland preferred, United States Rubber and Kelly-Springfield Tire also hardening. Standard Oil of New Jersey made an initial gain of 2 points and this soon was doubled, the California issue rising 2½. Associated Dry Goods was strongest of the specialties, advancing one point. Pressure against Union Pacific, New Haven and Westinghouse Electric caused fractional reverses in those issues.

In the final hour when call money rose to 5½ per cent specialties were under further pressure, but seasoned rails remained strong. The close was irregular. Bonds were active and higher with many new maximums for government issues.

WHEAT IN SETBACK

Downward Tendency of Market Laid to Profit-taking of Holders

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat showed a downward tendency in price Tuesday during the early trading. Declines were ascribed mainly to profit-taking on the part of holders. Reports of general rain in Argentina counted as a bearish factor. Opening quotations, which varied from ⅜c decline to a like advance with December $1.14¾ to ½ and May $1.17⅝ to $1.18¼, were followed by a moderate setback all around.

Later the setbacks became more pronounced and it was asserted that the recent advance of 12½c had weakened the technical position of the market. Prices closed unsettled 2¼ to 3c net lower, with December $1.11⅝ to ¾ and May $1.15⅜ to ½c.

Predictions that the advent of colder weather would mean increased receipts had a bearish influence on the corn market. After opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, including May at 54⅜ to 54⅝c, values displayed but little power to rally.

Slightly increased rural offerings and a lack of support led to decided down turns later. The close was weak 1¼ to 1½ to 1⅞ to 2c net lower with May 53½ to ⅝c.

Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting unchanged to ¼ to ⅜c lower, May 38⅝ to 38½ and later sagged further.

Provisions were steady but dull.

ITALIAN SHIPMENT OF ARMS TO TURKS STOPPED BY GREECE

PARIS.—An Athens dispatch to the Havas Agency Tuesday says a Greek cruiser has intercepted off the Ionian island of Cephalonia an Italian steamer bound for Adalia, Southwestern Asia Minor, with munitions alleged to be intended for the Turkish nationalist army. A search revealed, it is stated, nine Italian airplanes, two million cartridges and other war material.

It's One Drawback

A Scotsman went south to have a look at London. He traveled by the morning express, spent a few days in London, and sped back to Scotland again.

On the first night of his return to his little village up in the wilds all his friends gathered 'round him to hear his opinion of the town whose streets were "paved with gold."

He told the tale as only a Scotsman, short and candid, without too much padding; then a friend interrupted him:

"How long wur ye in Lunon a'the-gither, Jock?"

"About a week," replied the traveled man.

"What did ye think o' the toun?"

"Hoots, mon, it wur aul richt in its way! Lunnon's a fine wee toun itself, but it is sich a long wa' fra anywhere!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

EVERY BOY SCOUT AGREES TO DO ONE GOOD TURN IN EACH DAY OF EVERY YEAR

(BY MRS. A. B. BURGESS)

Every Boy Scout agrees to do at least one good turn daily. In a world where so many people spend each day looking for profits, or pleasure, or power, or revenge, it is a most hopeful sign when the boys go out each morning on the watch for opportunities of doing acts of kindness.

Some of these "good turns" are very simple little services; some mean real sacrifice. Not frequently a Boy Scout risks his own life to save someone who is in danger. In good turns great or small there is the same spirit—the spirit which animates the Scouts or every civilized nation under the sun.

"Safety first" is second nature with a scout, for the prevention of accidents is one of his earliest subjects of instruction. Most accidents can be foreseen. Every Scout is taught to look for them and by removing the causes to prevent the consequences.

The Scouts in some sections organize themselves as fire patrols. They have a system of quick mobilization. Automobiles are engaged to carry them, with their equipment of fire-rakes, axes, water bags, etc., provided by the state, to any point where they may be needed. The law gives them the right to commandeer plows, teams and men between the ages of eighteen and fifty-five years. They are also authorized to tear down fences, enter lands, cut trees or do anything reasonable to carry out the purpose of stopping the flames.

In the home a scout is ever on the watch for pins, needles, medicines, vessels containing hot liquids, sharp knives and any other dangerous article left within the reach of his little brother or sister. A scout is faithful; faithful to his own interests and the interests of others.

Be prepared is his motto and in case he is unable to prevent an accident, he is always prepared to administer first aid. His training keeps him physically strong and mentally awake which makes him capable of putting in practice, the knowledge which he has gained in scouting.

First Aid Work

Practical results of the value of first aid work was exemplified by Boy Scouts at Mitchell, S. D., while on a hike to Firesteel Creek; a 12-year-old boy stumbled and fell upon a thick piece of glass, cutting a deep gash in his knee-cap. Without the slightest hesitation, Wesley Walker, age 17, a first class scout, took the injured boy's legging and stocking off and doctored the injury. Water was boiling over a fire built by the scouts and he used this to cleanse the wound thoroughly. From a scout kit he took a sterilized bandage and had the wound dressed within ten minutes after the accident occurred.

In all parts of the United States and many other countries we find Boy Scouts performing deeds of kindness and bravery. Let us mention one or two more examples of the help which comes from the knowledge they have of first aid.

While boys were moving a school piano at Decatur, Ill., it fell over on the hand of one of the boys, splitting it and cutting an artery. A Boy Scout was right on the job, and in a few seconds he had a handkerchief tourniquet correctly placed so as to stop the flow of blood and then lead his patient to a doctor.

Scouts at Carnbrook, Pa., while out camping took prompt charge of the situation when a can of kerosene exploded with which a young woman was starting a fire. The scouts administered first aid, called a doctor, notified the girl's father, who was working several miles from home, and extinguished the fire, which was threatening the farm buildings.

Many a scout has rushed into a burning building and with a perfect knowledge of how to go about it, has rescued would-be victims and many a scout has rescued the drowning at a risk of his own life. A scout is brave. Yes, and he is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, clean and reverent, and the "good turn" is the heart of the Boy Scout movement.

Of course it would be useless to try to numerate any fraction of the good turns performed by the Boy Scouts but we will mention a few more showing how varied are the ways in which boys can make themselves useful.

Deliver Air Mail

The first aerial mail from New York to Washington carried so many messages and letters that when it landed on the outskirts of Washington it was found that insufficient provision had been made to carry out the distribution of this mail. The reputation of the post office department was likely to be shattered because of the delay in the speedy transmission of the messages to those to whom they were addressed. In this emergency the ever-ready scout organization was called upon, and as the airplane with its pouches of mail mutter swooped down to its rest there came, in answer to the hurried call from scout headquarters, one hundred uniformed and trustworthy boys on their bicycles. Supplementing the few men present in postal uniforms, these boys carried the most important messages speedily to the high officers to whom they were addressed and they also carried out the scout rule of doing this good turn without pay.

Following an earthquake in Nemet, Cal., Boy Scouts served as messengers to call wanted persons to the only telephone stations that were in operation.

A troop of Boy Scouts in New York City loaned $105 to their church at one time when the money was much needed.

The school building and grounds are kept free from objectionable defacement by a troop of scouts of Lima, Ohio.

The barberry plant is a deadly weed in the raising of wheat, and Boy Scouts of Ashland, Ill., have volunteered their services to remove this plant from the grounds of anyone in town.

The boys in a New York troop supplied several homes in the city with fuel which they obtained by cutting up old packing boxes.

Freshmen were met at all incoming trains by scouts in Ann Arbor, Mich., and given proper directions.

Find Lost Girl

While scouts in Freeland, Pa., were in camp on Mt. Yeager they learned that a young lady had become lost from a farm three miles away. After a week of search she was found by a party of scouts and had to be carried home. She was nearly starved and had lived on berries.

The odd jobs and the different tasks in a town naturally fall to the scouts. In Grand Rapids, Mich., the scouts carried sewing machines to the different homes where Red Cross meetings were being held.

After the ashes in a certain Chicago church had accumulated for three years, the Boy Scouts cleaned them all out, wonderfully changing the appearance of the basement.

And so they go on and multiply—three hundred thousand good turns a day, more than one hundred million a year, in our country alone, not to mention those done by other people as a direct result of the example furnished by the scouts.

Safety-first campaigns, swat-the-fly crusades and clean-up days have been conducted or assisted by scouts in scores of places. Very often the courteous appeal of a scout has proven more efficacious in securing permanent results than the pre-emptory order of a public official. There can be no question that the boy is working for the good of his community and that his suggestions are free from any connection with petty graft or politics. The scouts' service is of double value, bringing benefit to others and at the same time educating the boy.

More important than arithmetic, or grammar, or spelling, is his systematic teaching of thoughtfulness and kindness, for when selfishness is eliminated poverty and crime cannot exist.
